Local Young Writers Win IDeal Education Savings Scholarships

(Boise) – Twelve talented young storytellers from eastern Idaho have been awarded seed money this week by IDeal-Idaho’s College Savings Program for their educational aspirations.

The kids writing contest, which begins in January every year and typically closes in March, was extended this year due to the COVID-19 pandemic. On Saturday, October 24, Idaho Public Television named the winners and awarded these local students with prizes, including a $100 contribution to their IDeal—Idaho 529 College Savings Program accounts.

Now in its 26th year, the PBS KIDS Writers Contest empowers children in grades K-3 to celebrate creativity and build literacy skills by writing and illustrating their own stories. “This year we had 154 submissions from around Idaho, and the stories were awesome. A few of them made me laugh until I cried,” says Kathryn Astle, IdahoPTV community education specialist. “Some of the writers drew from real-life experiences, others dreamed up imaginative adventures, and they all added wonderful illustrations. The PBS KIDS Writers Contest is a great way for children to engage in polishing their language skills and creativity — abilities that are vital in today’s world.”

This year’s PBS KIDS Writers Contest is sponsored in part by IDeal-Idaho’s College Savings Program. IDeal is Idaho’s 529 plan and is designed to help families plan and save for higher education in a tax-advantaged way. “IDeal is proud to be a part of helping young Idahoans identify their talents and to foster excitement for learning. We hope that their excitement about education, and their college savings accounts, will keep growing for years to come,” said Christine Stoll, Executive Director of IDeal.

Some of the local winners include:
