

Message from the Nebraska State Treasurer

As a NEST 529 account owner, you already have come a long way toward achieving your goal of helping your child or grandchild pay for college. You have done the research, read the fine print, and developed the habit of contributing regularly to a NEST 529 college savings account. Maybe you contribute regularly to more than one. You are in good company.

While the Nebraska Educational Savings Trust, known as NEST 529, has 252,000 accounts nationwide and assets exceeding $4.5 billion, many families today do not know about state-sponsored 529 college savings accounts and the benefits they offer. In fact, a survey by a major investment firm released earlier this year showed that only 32 percent of people surveyed could correctly identify a 529 plan as an option for saving for college.

So, while you are well ahead of the game, I encourage you to take advantage of additional ways to increase your NEST 529 savings through a variety of possibilities. Think about making an additional contribution to a NEST 529 plan as a back-to-school gesture for your child or grandchild this autumn or as a gift for a birthday or special occasion. Think about increasing your regular contribution even by a small amount. It all adds up, you know. And think about taking advantage of automatic withdrawals from your checking or savings account, a feature offered by NEST 529.

As the traditional harvest season gets underway, look for new ways to ensure that the “harvest” you anticipate years down the road — when your child or grandchild approaches age 18 — will be not only sufficient, but most likely bountiful.

Optimizing Your NEST 529 College Savings Accounts

You already know that the NEST 529 College Savings Plan is a great way to help your kids reach their dreams through higher education. Did you know the plan offers features and benefits to make saving easier and more effective?

The U.S. economy grew at a 3.0% annualized rate in the second quarter, a solid rebound from the sluggish first quarter.¹ It represents the fastest pace of growth in more than two years and is higher than the approximate 2% growth over the life of the expansion. In assessing the U.S. economic outlook, we utilize the Leading Economic Indicators (LEI) report. The LEI report consists of 10 economic statistics that tend to predict the near term outlook for an economy based on indicators such as employment, demand, confidence and market signals. The most recent LEI increased 0.6%, which was the largest gain since December 2014.² Based on this strong report, we expect continued economic growth in the U.S.

In addition, the global economy has continued to accelerate in 2017 as demand, manufacturing, and company earnings all have expanded. While geopolitical risks still exist, we feel that we are currently in a landscape that supports continued growth. Large U.S. companies are benefiting from the accelerating international sales and weaker dollar. In the second quarter, sales and earnings growth from companies in the S&P 500 were 5.2% and 10.3%, respectively.³ The solid company fundamentals have contributed to the positive market with the S&P 500 year-to-date return +11.9%.⁴ International returns have surpassed the U.S. stock returns with the MSCI Europe Australia Far East (EAFE) return +17.0%.⁵

Investors have increasingly become concerned about the political environment and the potential market impact. Although increased volatility is possible, stock market corrections typically occur when the economy and earnings decelerate. While the somewhat elevated stock market valuations and politics may limit future returns, a U.S. economy with low unemployment, inflation and interest rates is likely to continue to be a good environment for equities. The fixed income market also continues to confound experts with interest rates remaining low. This has led to a year-to-date return of +2.8% in taxable bonds.⁶ The major risk in fixed income is acceleration in inflation, which does not appear to be occurring.

Preparing Your Child for College, a NEST529.com Blog Post

by Shannon Wallace, NEST 529 College Savings Plan Account Owner

A few short weeks ago, my only child headed to high school. I'm excited and a little worried about the life experiences that await him over the next four years. Reality is also setting in, though; the next four years are really about preparing him for college and being an adult. Is he ready?

Right before he started kindergarten, my employer provided information about the NEST 529 College Savings Plan. The earnings were higher than a savings account, and contributing offered tax savings. Direct deposit from my paycheck could be set up to add to his 529 account every month, and most importantly, the savings can only be used for education-related expenses. The NEST 529 Savings Plan was exactly what I needed to help save for my son's education, but also reinforces my belief in the importance of pursuing a college degree and preparing my son for the rest of his life.

Visit NEST529.com and search for "blogs" to read Shannon's full story.

Year-End Tax Tips

Back-to-school time is the perfect time to plan ahead to ensure you are realizing the most tax saving potential with your NEST 529 account. Take this quick quiz to see how savvy you are about meeting your college savings goals.

- Are you maximizing your full tax savings opportunities in your state? Many states permit a tax benefit even if investing in another state’s plan. That’s why nearly 40% of all NEST 529 accounts are from account owners outside Nebraska. If you are a Nebraska state income taxpayer, account owners are offered tax advantages for investing in NEST 529, including an annual $10,000 state income tax deduction.⁷ Check your state’s tax benefits and maximize your savings to reap the full benefits provided. Search “Tax Advantages” on NEST529.com to get full details.
- Have you thought of a NEST 529 account as a way to give the gift of education to a child or grandchild as a part of your estate planning? It is a way to pass on wealth while removing assets from the parent’s or grandparent’s taxable estate without having to incur the expense to establish and maintain a trust. Unique to 529 plans, five years of gifting can be accelerated and invested in a 529 plan in a single year.
- Is your calendar marked with a year-end contribution reminder? If you’re mailing a check, the best approach is to send your contribution a few weeks before the end of the year, although contributions sent by U.S. mail and postmarked on or before December 31 will be treated as having been made in that year. For Electronic Funds Transfers, contributions will be considered in the year that the EFT was initiated. To count for 2017, make your contribution on or before December 31, 11:59:59 p.m. ET.

- Do you owe yourself money? Remember to make your qualified withdrawal before the end of the year to pay yourself back for expenses incurred during 2017. It’s easy to make qualified withdrawals online, by phone or by mail. And don’t forget to keep receipts related to qualified expenses with your tax records.⁸

Talk to your tax professional and don’t wait until the last minute. As always, we’re here to help! Contact us at NEST529.com.

⁷ Nebraska state tax deductions are subject to recapture if you cancel the Participation Agreement, a non-qualified withdrawal is taken, or if assets are rolled out of the Plan.

⁸ If assets in an account are not used for qualified expenses, the earnings portion of the withdrawal is subject to federal income tax and an additional 10% federal tax and may be subject to state and local taxes.
