Grateful for the NEST 529 Community

Message from the Nebraska State Treasurer

While the school season and holidays may look much different this year for many – from social distancing to creating new holiday memories and traditions – what remains unchanged is the unwavering commitment to higher education planning within the NEST 529 community.

It is inspiring to see your continuous commitment to ensure your loved ones have the opportunity to achieve their higher education goals. The NEST 529 community is filled with bright young scholars, and it's exciting to think about their strong academic futures, that will be filled with many milestones.

As we embark upon the upcoming holiday season, I encourage everyone to take a moment and reflect on all there is to be grateful for and to celebrate even the smallest of victories. As you speak with your loved ones, I challenge you to continue to spark conversations of educational futures, as well as to continuously take advantage of all of NEST 529's resources to help you achieve your goals.

Market Commentary

The stock market has continued its impressive rebound with the S&P 500 hitting a new high at the end of August, up +9.74% so far this year.¹ Investors have bid up stocks in anticipation of continued economic improvement as the coronavirus subsides. The market is being led by information technology, consumer discretionary and communication services sectors. Value-oriented industries such as energy and financials have lagged the U.S. market in 2020. Although international equities have recovered, their returns remain in negative territory, down -4.61% year-to-date.²

Economic data is trending in the right direction, even though we continue to see high unemployment and certain parts of the economy effectively shut down. Industries experiencing strong demand include housing, home improvement, grocery stores, and autos. This growth is offsetting weak demand in hotel, travel, and leisure. The data should continue to improve with current estimates of +28.9% GDP growth in the third quarter.³ Although this won't completely make up for the second quarter downturn, continued economic improvement will support a corporate earnings recovery.

Fixed income returns are positive with the Barclay's Intermediate Government/Credit Index up +5.94% so far this year.⁴ Both government securities and corporate bonds have contributed to the positive results. The economic situation of high unemployment and low inflation will likely allow the Fed to keep interest rates low for the foreseeable future. Low interest rates negatively impact bond investors looking for income and may push more investors into equities for additional returns.

We believe the economic and stock market decline and subsequent recovery in 2020 confirms a key investment principle. Investors have been typically rewarded by staying invested through market cycles. Investors have a 46% chance of losing money if you hold the S&P 500 for just one day, but only a 6% chance if you hold equities for 10 years.⁵ We advocate determining an appropriate long-term asset allocation and maintaining that investment discipline even during difficult times.

Voice of the Customer: Why I'm Thankful for NEST 529

The following excerpt is from Mary Molliconi, NEST 529 Account Owner and Executive Director of Edgerton Explorit Center:

Forbes has completed studies that show a college graduate is 177 times more likely than a high school graduate to earn $4 million or more throughout their lifetime. This striking study illustrates just how important it is to invest in your child's future.

To me, there is nothing more important than education, and it is the foundation of my life's work. When we had our son, Jake, we immediately started thinking about his future and education. We started a NEST 529 account for him and invest in it every month. We have also shared this information with Jake and it gives us a great avenue to talk to him about his future.

Even at age 11, we encouraged him to have the attitude that it is not "if I go to college" but "when I go to college." The NEST 529 College Savings Plan is what helps make that difference, as well as our conversations regarding college, saving, and our son's future. I encourage every family to start a NEST 529 account ... don't miss out on an opportunity to invest in your child!

Be Tax Savvy

Saving for college is a marathon, not a sprint. Throughout this journey, dedication, commitment, and vision will take you far, and the tax benefits of NEST 529 may help take your savings even further.

In addition to tax-deferred growth and tax-free withdrawals, investing in a NEST 529 account can also have significant state income tax benefits. For Nebraska state income tax payers, Account Owners are offered significant tax advantages for investing in NEST 529, including up to an annual $10,000 income tax deduction, or $5,000 per spouse if filing separately. To take advantage of the Nebraska state income tax deduction for contributions made in 2020, contributions must be postmarked by Dec. 31, 2020 or submitted electronically by 10:59 p.m. CST on Dec. 31, 2020. Make sure you report your 2020 contributions on your 2020 Nebraska state income tax return.

Account Owners living outside of Nebraska may have options as well. Some states offer a tax benefit even if Account Owners are investing in another state's plan. Consult with a financial advisor or tax professional to determine your eligibility for state tax benefits.

KIDS' TIME: Cozy Craft Corner

'Tis the season! Engage your child with these homemade gifts they can make for loved ones this holiday season:

Board Game Extravaganza

Help your child create a fun new board game, as well as the corresponding rules and guidelines. This will help to refine strategic thinking skills and encourage creativity.
